RE: Comments on the Notice of Intent to Find that Oregon has Failed to Submit an Approvable Coastal Nonpoint Program (78 FR 77104)

To whom it Concerns:

The Environment Protection Agency and The National Oceanic Atmospheric Agency has exceeded the limits defined in the US Constitution. These agencies are imposing too many regulations and restrictions on the states, private property, and individuals. It is time for the US Congress to remove the budgets of the EPA and NOAA, allowing the proceeds to revert to the state of origin.

It is not the purpose of the Republic to dole out money to the individual states. The Federal government has become too large and has garnered too much authority in areas outside their purview. The state of Oregon would not need to grovel for the return of their own money if the state did not have to meet the requirements imposed by Federal bureaucracies. A smaller Federal budget would mean a much larger state budget.
